Dear [REDACTED]

We are emailing to explain how important the service Plus provides to our son. As a severely autistic boy with profound learning difficulties, Plus has been a lifeline for us and for him. It gives him a chance to spend time with other children he knows with staff that have supported him for years.

Going to Plus at the weekend is the highlight of his week and familiar routines are so important to him. Without that provision nearby, he would have very little social contact. That is even more so with the prospect of him coming to the end of his schooling. Plus offers help and support well into adulthood.

Knowing that he is enjoying time out, nearby and in his community is important for us too and does give us some much needed respite.

We very much hope these factors are taken into consideration in the decision process around available facilities.

Happy to provide further detail.

Kind regards

[REDACTED]
